

NovaJet Announces the new Piper Cheyenne II is now available for charter.

Toronto, Ontario.—June 1, 2010 – NovaJet, an executive jet charter service that flies out of Toronto, today announced its recent purchase the Piper Cheyenne II executive turbo prop is now available for charter.

Few charter aircraft offer you the uncompromised performance of the Piper Cheyenne II. It is an all weather, pressurized turbo-prop that is made to carry 5 passengers comfortably in an executive style cabin. With unrivalled short field performance it gives client's access to runways that many private jets are unable to use, including gravel runways. In many cases this enables client's to get closer to their final destination in much less time than commercial service. Its diversification, elegance, uncompromising quality, and proven reliability set the standard for all private aircraft in its class.

NovaJet's Cheyenne II has recently been retrofitted with a new state of the cabin interior which gives the aircraft unsurpassed comfort and style. NovaJet is offering all clients an aggressive introductory charter rate of $1,500.00 per air hour. Call today to be one of the first to experience this remarkable executive turbo prop.
